Using Evidence to End Homelessness

Edited by Lígia Teixeira and James Cartwright, Centre for Homelessness Impact

"A fascinating synthesis of the concerns and challenges facing those working to end homelessness, alongside the emerging transferable lessons and insights arising from the growing role of evidence evaluation and what works across many public policy domains."

Ken Gibb, UK Collaborative Centre for Housing Evidence

"Where resources are at a premium, impacts are life-altering and options are disputed, building evidence about what works to combat homelessness is essential. This book offers a serious way to achieve large-scale sustainable progress for people experiencing homeless in the UK and beyond."

Nancy Hey, What Works Wellbeing

Homelessness is unequivocally devastating. In the UK, people affected by homelessness are ten times more likely to die than their peers in the general population, yet we still miss important opportunities to adequately address the issue.

The Centre for Homelessness Impact brings together this urgent book gathering the insights and experiences of leaders in government, academia and the third sector to present new evidence-based strategies to end homelessness.

Demonstrating why and how a new movement is needed that embraces data and evidence as integral to ending homelessness effectively, this book provides crucial methods to underpin future policy, practice and funding decisions.
